There were a few clients I had tried to reach this week that responded this week-end unexpectedly, so I called them back to avoid having to ask Kevin, and this added a bit more to my to-do list. I also had about one dozen client files that I needed to send detailed notes + documents to Kevin Romyn and the RJ Program about in order to keep their matters on track. Lawyers often have access to sensitive information such as client disclosure and court dockets. We are not meant to keep this information once we no longer need it, so I spent quite a bit of time going through my inbox (and sent folder) to make sure I wasn't accidentally hanging on to information I was not supposed to keep. I also had a bit of time sensitive research to complete yesterday which took a bit longer than anticipated. I also wanted to make sure that all client documents and detailed notes (not just for the files I transitioned to Kevin or the RJ Program) were on our legal database (Sharepoint) before deleting documents, so there were several steps involved before closing outstanding files.
